10/15 The Women's Human Rights Film Series, presented with The Advocates for Human Rights, screens "Finding Dawn."

"Finding Dawn" examines the murders and disappearances of an estimated 500 Aboriginal women who have gone missing or been murdered in Canada over the past 30 years, crimes that remain unresolved to this day.

Mary Ellingen, staff attorney in the Women's Human Rights Program at The Advocates, and Maureen White Eagle, executive director of Partners for Women's Equality, host a discussion after the film.
