RE: Support of H.F. 707

Dear Representatives Moller and O'Neill:

The Advocates for Human Rights supports H.F. 707 and thanks you for your leadership. Sexual violence is a serious crime that can have a devastating impact on victims. Minnesota must prevent sexual violence from happening. Ensuring that crimes are defined properly and that prosecutors have the tools they need is an essential part of that prevention. H.F. 707 includes important legislative changes to ensure that individuals who exploit others for sexual gratification will be held accountable.

Specifically, we support the proposed definition of “mentally incapacitated,” which clearly specifies that persons who are very intoxicated – even voluntarily – should be free from unwanted sexual conduct. The current law, which fails to protect people from unwanted sexual conduct in such situations, sends a dangerous message that once a person is so intoxicated that they cannot consent, consent is not needed. This conduct is wrong, and it is time to hold people accountable for this form of sexual exploitation.

We also endorse the proposed language prohibiting sexual extortion. Simply put, exploiting people’s circumstances – like their need for housing or a job or their fear of having sexual images shared or being deported – to extort sex is wrong. Such threats can be every bit as powerful as physical force or other types of coercion, but right now, Minnesota lets people exploit others’ vulnerabilities to extort sexual “favors.” H.F. 707 fills this gap in legal protection.

Finally, we are heartened to see the proposal to convene a working group to study the predatory offender statutes. While accountability for criminal conduct is important, it is equally important for criminal systems to respond without creating unnecessary harm. Predatory Offender Registration statutes impose significant and often debilitating stigma upon people, sometimes throughout the duration of their lives. People subject to POR statutes often are effectively barred from employment and housing long after completing their criminal sentences. We support efforts to provide treatment and support to individuals with a history of criminal sexual conduct and their efforts to rejoin the community without additional burdens.

Sincerely,

Robin Phillips
